FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is the New Mandurah Hospital project?

Built on a site next to the current Peel Health Campus, New Mandurah Hospital will replace all services at the existing hospital with purpose-built facilities.

Why is a new hospital needed?

The Peel region is one of Western Australia's fastest-growing areas. The new hospital will increase capacity, expand services and help more people access care closer to home.

Will construction impact operations at the Peel Health Campus?

Peel Health Campus will remain fully operational throughout construction of the new hospital. Construction areas will be separated from patient and clinical spaces, and construction activities will be carefully managed.

Who is delivering the project?

The Office of Major Infrastructure Delivery is managing delivery of the project on behalf of the Department of Health and the South Metropolitan Health Service. The Western Australian Health Alliance, a joint venture between Built Pty Ltd and Sacyr Construction Pty Ltd, is delivering the works.

What will happen to the existing Peel Health Campus?

Future options for the existing building are being considered.

What sustainability features are included?

The new hospital is targeting a 5-Star Green Star certification and includes sustainable design features, durable materials, landscaping with local native species and facilities that support walking and cycling.

Have environmental impacts been considered?

Yes. Environmental assessments and approvals have been completed to ensure the project meets environmental requirements and standards.

Does the project support local culture and community identity?

Yes. The design of the new hospital has been informed by the Noongar meaning of Mandjoogoordap – “meeting place of the heart” – creating a culturally safe and welcoming environment for patients, families, staff and visitors.
